INTRODUCTION

The 2019 MAB Youth Action Plan has been agreed upon by the participants of the 2019 MAB Youth Forum, with the aim to take concrete actions in line with the demands and commitments formulated in the 2019 MAB Youth Forum Final Declaration. In the course of its elaboration, the participants decided that referring to the the 5 UNESCO-MAB Regions would be more meaningful, more practical, and more efficient to further engage with the MAB Youth community on the ground. This would as well help overcome linguistic barriers while leveraging on regional and cultural specificities.

Working in regional groups, MAB Youth representatives established priority actions and a timeline for their implementation. They also elected Regional MAB Youth Focal Points, also taking into consideration a good distribution of representatives per sub-regions in their respective regions.

It is our hope that efforts will be spent now to establish more formal connections with the MAB Regional Networks in the framework of which MAB Youth would like to be more actively involved. With the Final Declaration of the 2019 edition of the MAB Youth Forum, and the present Action Plan, they confirm their will and commitment to be actors of change, particularly mobilized for climate actions and the conservation of biodiversity.

Ibero-American and Caribbean MAB Youth Action Plan

Priority Actions

The IBEROMAB Youth Network was created during the development of the First IBEROMAB Youth Forum, where 89 young representatives of the Biosphere Reserve Network of Latin America and the Caribbean participated, taking place from December 5 to 8, 2018 at the Bosques de Paz Transboundary Biosphere Reserve in Ecuador. This event was a unique opportunity to discuss the role of the younger generations who work, study or live in the Biosphere Reserves of Latin America, the Caribbean, Spain and Portugal. In this context our network proposes the following actions:

- 1. Fortify the Ibero-American and Caribbean Biosphere Reserves Youth Network;
- 2. Establish our action plan under regional, national and local levels relating the three functions of the Biosphere Reserves (conservation, development and logistic support) that are balanced in terms of interculturality and gender; strengthen the development of an effective agenda in the Biosphere Reserves;
- Select in a democratic way and with parity criteria a youth representative from each Biosphere Reserve and one representative by country, to participate directly in the governance bodies of the Biosphere Reserves and the IberoMAB Network;
- 4. Promote the official presentation of our network in national and local MAB Focal Points:
- Create a virtual platform for regional youth to include information on projects, financing, education opportunities, exchanges and research to address the challenges facing youth;
- 6. Promote the exchange of knowledge among young people through biennial participatory meetings and virtual seminars at all levels;
- Contribute and promote the involvement of young people in the maintenance of ancestral and traditional ecological knowledge and good practices in Biosphere Reserves;
- 8. Be part of initiatives that promote the development of the Biosphere Reserve brand in the different countries that make up IberoMAB;
- Influence institutions in the generation of employment opportunities and entrepreneurship for the youth of the IberoMAB Biosphere Reserves, which are in accordance with the values of the MAB Programme and the Sustainable Development Goals;
- Support actions and initiatives that condemn crimes against the environment and the integrity of those who defend it; so as to ensure the protection of the natural resource;
- 11. Promote collaborative work with other networks of young people that are involved in environmental and conservation issues regarding sustainable development;
- 12. Work together with the Focal Point of the Convention on Biological Diversity of each country and with the Global Youth Biodiversity Network, for the implementation and fulfilment objectives of the Convention on Biological Diversity.
